What is a Family Preservation Program?

Family Preservation Program (FPP) is an outpatient program that provides intensive substance abuse treatment to pregnant mothers and families with substance abuse exposed children between the ages of zero to five. The program is designed to allow children to safely remain in the home or to be returned to their parent's care while the family receives intensive substance abuse and family services.

Our goal is to help parents achieve sobriety and prevent relapse while keeping the child(ren) in the home and out of state custody.

The Facts

- In Oklahoma, there were 7,310 substantiated cases of a child born addicted to a substance in 2016. This was 86% of the children in protective cases.
